MESSAGE FROM HEAD OF EDUCATION

Dear ISCS Community,

Today has been a truly special day at ISCS – The British School of Zug. Our school has been alive with excitement and joy as students and staff came together for our whole-school assembly and our much-loved Halloween celebrations. These moments remind us of what makes ISCS such a vibrant and distinctive community—a place where learning, laughter, and shared experiences create memories that last a lifetime.

Events like today do far more than bring enjoyment; they strengthen the bonds that unite us as a family school. They remind us that ISCS is not only a place for academic growth, but also for friendship, creativity, and a deep sense of belonging.

As we begin a new month, we also reflect on our core value (and November's monthly value at school) of Respect, which will guide our learning and interactions throughout November. In our wonderfully international community, respect means recognising and valuing the differences that make each of us unique. It means listening with empathy, appreciating the traditions and cultures that enrich our environment, and ensuring that every voice is heard.

By showing respect in all we do—towards ourselves, others, and our world—we continue to nurture the inclusive and caring spirit that defines ISCS. I am confident that, with this shared commitment, our students will not only carry joyful memories of their school days, but also the lifelong values that will guide them beyond the classroom.

I wish everyone a lovely weekend.

Warm regards,

Mr. Soto

PRIMARY SCHOOL

In Art, we have been learning all about colours - how to mix them to create new colours and how a colour wheel can help us. They made their own colour wheel by finding primary and secondary colours in nature.

As this week is Halloween, we have also been getting into the mood with some halloween themed activities! We have been sorting trick and treats, and all things pumpkins.

PSHE in Middle School: Building Communication and Supporting Mental Health

Following Ms. McCoubrey's excellent "Tea and Talks" event earlier this term, Middle School PSHE lessons have continued to focus on one of the most important life skills of all: clear, confident communication. The theme of open, honest conversation has been woven throughout this term's PSHE curriculum, helping students explore how the way we express ourselves can have a powerful impact on our relationships and wellbeing.

In class discussions, students have been encouraged to think about how they listen to others, how they share their own thoughts, and how they can communicate feelings respectfully and effectively. Through interactive activities, role-plays, and group reflections, they've discovered that communication isn't just about words - it's also about empathy, body language, and understanding different perspectives.

Alongside these skills, PSHE lessons have emphasised the importance of mental health awareness. Students have explored strategies for managing stress, balancing school and personal life, and supporting friends who might be going through a difficult time. The message has been clear: taking care of our mental health is just as vital as taking care of our physical health.

HIGH SCHOOL

"In Student Council, we have been discussing different ideas and issues. I enjoy it because I get to listen to others' opinions and view situations from different perspectives" - Habiba, Y13

"In PSHE, we learn about to keep healthy relationships - either platonic or romantic" - Avery, Y13

"In PSHE, we have been learning about different types of relationships" - Louis, Y13

"In Student Council, I like that we get our voices heard about different issues and some of them get solved really well which is amazing. Ms McCoubery is very attentive, alongside the other Student Council members" - Hansika, Y13

"In PSHE, we have been looking at how to deal with a range of life situations" - Lilly, Y13

"In Careers, we have been learning about how to structure an elevator pitch" - Henri, Y12

"In PSHE, we had a debate about whether space tourism is good or bad" - Alex, Y13

"In PSHE, we have been learning about relationships and how they work. In Careers, we have been working on planning our next steps for the future" - Carlo, Y12
